STATE	STATUTE	DEFINITION OF ABUSE AND /OR NEGLECT INCLUDES CHILD EXPOSED TO VIOLENCE
Alaska	§ 47.10.011 - 47.10.015	A court may find that a child is in need of aid if the court finds by a preponderance of the evidence that the child has been subjected to conduct or conditions created by the parent ... that have resulted in mental injury to the child or has placed the child at substantial risk of mental injury as a result of exposure to [domestic violence] by a household member against another household member or repeated exposure to [domestic violence] against another household member.
Connecticut	§ 17a-106b	The State of Connecticut finds that family violence can result in abuse and neglect of the children living in the household where such violence occurs and that the prevention of child abuse and neglect depends on coordination of domestic violence and child protective services. The Commissioner of Children and Families may consider the existence and the impact of family violence in any child abuse investigation and may assist family members in obtaining protection from family violence.
