

THE NATIONAL COUNCIL OF JUVENILE AND FAMILY COURT JUDGES

THE NCJFCJ's 2025 ANNUAL REPORT

Message from the CEO

CEO
Joey Orduña Hastings
Reno, Nevada

Dear Members, Partners, and Friends of the NCJFCJ,

For 89 years, NCJFCJ has demonstrated endurance and commitment to provide comprehensive judicial, and court professional training, evaluation, research, and sustainable systems change in juvenile and family courts – both state and tribal jurisdictions. Our members, our teams, and the people we serve face adversity in some form each day and through our values of Compassion – Leadership – Education – Community, together, we work through adversity with a problem-solving mindset. We have the skills, the practice, and experience to focus on the long-term goal and not just short-term satisfaction. Systems change takes time; long-term focus and practice are keys to success.

Endurance and commitment are also a part of NCJFCJ's center of excellence represented by our team, specifically their commitment, experience, and adaptability to new laws, practices, science, and research. In this annual report, and as we reflect upon our accomplishments, I would like to take a moment to recognize our team of Division Directors overseeing judicial training, systems change, evaluation, and research/statistics.

- Hunter Hurst, MA, Director of NCJFCJ's independent research arm, the National Center of Juvenile Justice
- Amy Pincolini-Ford, JD, Director of Family Violence and Domestic Relations
- Cheri Ely, MA, Director of Juvenile Justice
- Eryn Branch, MA, Director of Family Violence and Domestic Relations
- Allison List, PhD, Director of Behavioral Health
- Scott Trowbridge, JD, Director of Child Welfare

This team of systems change, and judicial education experts have respected reputations in the fields of juvenile and family law, domestic violence, domestic relations, behavioral health, trauma informed practices, ICWA, human trafficking, research, and data. I am honored to be a part of this leadership team and our broader group of talented team members throughout the United States. I am grateful for the number of partners and collaborators we have in this important work.

In the following pages of this annual report, you will find inspiring examples of the impactful work we and our members are accomplishing together nationwide. I remain energized by our progress and can't wait to see what our 90th anniversary has in store for us!

THE NCJFCJ AND THE CENTER FOR TRAUMA RECOVERY AND JUVENILE JUSTICE PARTNER TO ADVANCE TRAUMA-INFORMED PRACTICES

The National Council of Juvenile and Family Court Judges (NCJFCJ) announced a new partnership with the Center for Trauma Recovery and Juvenile Justice (CTRJJ), a national training and technical assistance center affiliated with the National Child Traumatic Stress Network (NCTSN), to strengthen trauma-informed practices in juvenile and family courts across the country.

This collaboration combines the NCJFCJ's judicial education expertise with CTRJJ's specialized training tools to provide courts with innovative processes that better support youth, families, and justice-system professionals.

For 88 years, the NCJFCJ has led the way in judicial education and the development of trauma-informed practices for courts, helping judges and practitioners understand and respond to the complex needs of families and youth. Building on a 20-year collaboration with the NCTSN and ongoing support, this partnership with CTRJJ represents the next phase of innovation introducing new, complementary tools to help courts create lasting, systemic change. The funding the NCJFCJ has received by the Office of Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention (OJJDP) has contributed towards moving this work forward.

As part of the collaboration, the NCJFCJ will launch a new Trauma Audit process, designed to work in tandem with CTRJJ's Trauma-Informed Juvenile Court Self-Assessment (TI-JCSA). Together, these processes will give courts an in-depth framework to evaluate their trauma-informed practices, implement meaningful improvements, and foster sustainable reform.

The partnership also introduces a new model of external training and technical assistance, enabling courts to maximize the effectiveness of the TI-JCSA while strategically expanding the reach of both the Trauma Audit and TI-JCSA nationally.

New & Notable

Stalking and Risk

The NCJFCJ's National Judicial Institute on Domestic Violence (NJIDV) presents Stalking Matters, a podcast to help judicial officers better respond to stalking. The episode highlights the Judicial Officer Guide and bench card developed by SPARC, NCJFCJ, and NIWAP.

Raising Expectations

This podcast features a conversation between judicial officers, legal advocates, and mental health professionals on custody evaluation in the context of domestic violence. It explores why this work is challenging and necessary, how to avoid bias, and how judges can promote safer, more informed evaluative practices.

Nevada Center for Juvenile Justice Innovations

Created under Nevada law, the Nevada Center for Juvenile Justice Innovation (NCJJI) supports quality programs in the state's juvenile justice system. This podcast series highlights emerging research, practices, and innovations, featuring expert guests who share insights from their work in the field.

Enhanced Resource Guidelines (ERG)

The Enhanced Resource Guidelines podcast, a partnership between NAWJ, NCJFCJ, and the State Justice Institute, explores how the Guidelines support high-performing dependency and neglect courts. Through shared stories, the podcast offers insight and inspiration for building and sustaining effective court practices.

Keep the Numbers Low

This NCJFCJ podcast, funded by the William T. Grant Foundation, explores youth confinement decision-making during and after COVID-19. Topics include detention trends, alternatives to confinement, and balancing community safety.

Centering Children

This podcast series features Dr. Peter Jaffe and Dr. Linda Baker discussing the impact of domestic violence on children. Hosted by the NJIDV, the series explores children's exposure to violence, custody decision-making, and strategies to support resilience.

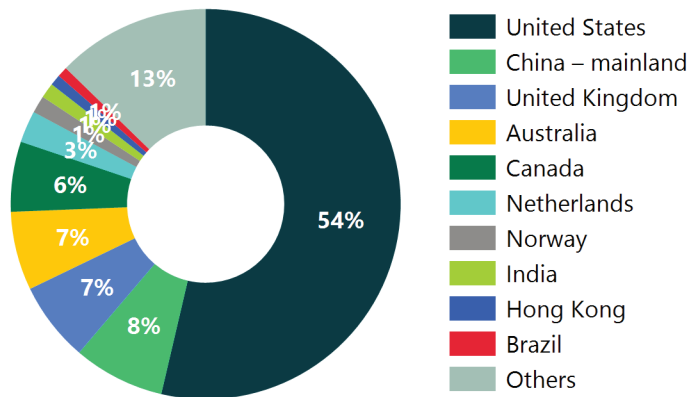

Court RENOVation

Court RENOVations showcases the NCJFCJ's work from its Reno headquarters and across the country to improve courts for families and communities. The series features judges and changemakers reimagining justice through bold, compassionate innovation.
